Newsletter

Faculty of Commerce

Vol. I (2022-23)

From the Principal's Desk:

It gives me immense pleasure to know that the Commerce Department of our college is going to publish a Newsletter. The stream has got a glorious past and it continues to spread a ray of wisdom in the society. The letter contains lots of news but also a will to encourage our new fraternity to do something extraordinary. The news letter is our mission and we will read our department properly through this attempt.

With regards

Principal

This report aims to provide a comprehensive overview of the inauguration of the wall magazine at our Department.

From the Editor's Desk:

The second wave of the covid-19 pandemic has further crippled India's traditional education system. Students were once again denied the opportunity to be present in the physical classroom environment and were forced to remain on the outskirts of the digital classroom. Teachers have also been constrained by the digital system. However, this restriction could not prevent both the student and teacher communities from achieving their desired outcome. The intellectual practice has been carried on through digital media. Classes continued, as did participation in organizing and attending online seminars, conferences, workshops, short-term courses and various faculty development programs. The current issue of the Newsletter reflects all of the Commerce department's intellectual practices at a critical juncture. Each news and event on each of the newsletter's pages carry the institution's glory in a critical period of the century proving once again that nothing is impossible.
